PREFACE

This book is the third for such a series on individual states of the Old Northwest. The first was for Ohio, Buckeye State (4 Vols.). The second followed the same pattern for analysis of Indiana. The present work includes 1500 pictures to illustrate the other three volumes on Illinois: I, History; II, Government; III, Historical Atlas; IV, Pictorial History. It has been made necessary by the rapid trend to urban way of life and need for materials to aid the imagination of younger persons especially in their reconstruction of the earlier predominant rural-agricultural way. Faults in presentation there are, but at times there were not available more satisfactory pictures to use; difficulties in production were many. The final product is serviceable. The array of pictures moves ahead in general chronological order. Things, persons, places and processes are stressed. The author has been a teacher in all grades of education.

Such an array of illustrations must be very dependent on the work of others, appreciation for which is expressed here. Publication has been aided by contributions of industrial concerns and by old hand-drawn pictures and photographs long out of circulation and needing to be brought back into service, and by the editor's own collection. State agencies, especially those of the Illinois Conservation Department, have been most helpful. Valuable also have been old issues of the "Prairie Farmer" and booklets on centennial celebrations. The pictures are the result of an accumulation of forty years, assorted and arranged to show the making of the modern state.

A word to prospective users may be constructive. The book is a pictorial history but increasingly it will become a museum book for Illinois. Approach it systematically: Flip through the pages for an overview of what is there; notice the List of pictures and their organization; become acquainted with the Index. Then select a field of interest or conduct a general "look-fest," with or without projector or magnifying glass. Notice architecture, streets and the things on them, styles, tools and implements, transportation, materials from which objects were made, presence or lack of "candid shots," etc., etc., and it may be used as foundation for a private or class "scrapbook" for the addition of other pictures by pasting them on the backs of pages, or by cutting up the pages, regrouping and renumbering them, with new List and Index, etc., and thus build up the feeling of individual or class creative work. Loose-leaf covers would make satisfactory binding for the new volumes. Many views may be used in opaque projector. Good luck to "oldsters" with their looking, and to youngsters in school and out in constructive picture collection.

The "Freeport Question," 1858, to-day, 1914.

"Can the people of a United States Territory, in any lawful way, against the wish of any citizen of the United States, exclude Slavery from its limits prior to the formation of a State Constitution?"

The "Freeport Question," 1858, to-day, 1914.

"If the people of Kansas shall, by means entirely unobjectionable in all other respects, adopt a State Constitution, and ask admission into the Union under it before they have the requisite number of inhabitants according to the English Bill—some ninety-three thousand—will you vote to admit them?"

Christmas Greetings from Former Times

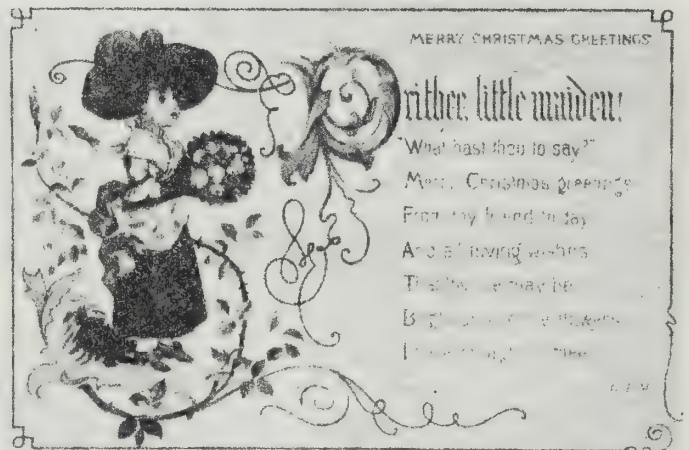

I have not a penny in my pocket,
 And I have not a friend to call;
 I have not a home to go to,
 And I have not a home to call.

But I have a heart that is true,
 And I have a heart that is true;
 I have a heart that is true,
 And I have a heart that is true.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

Chime, chime, chime, here's to the bells;
 Try to all now their music to tell,
 Flinging upward, gossamer and more;
 O'er a net Redeemer's love,
 How bright 'twixt us we sing,
 While we praise our exalted
 King;
 In our carol welcome the morn,
 O'er our Redeemer's love.

MERRY CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

rithee, little maiden!

"What hast thou to say?"
 Merry Christmas greetings
 From my hand to day
 And a loving wish
 That thou may be
 Blessed with love and joy
 I have no more to say.

'Tis very nice
 upon the ice
 For little folks to go,
 But when they're least expecting it,
 Why down they fall!
 'Tis just so!
 A Happy New Year.
